DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 15-19, 21-25, 27-31, 33-37, 39-47, 49-53 and 55-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lesh '457. In Figure 8a-c, Lesh discloses an invasive catheter assembly comprising an elongate catheter, an expandable electrode body (370) configured to form a pronounce ring which defines a distal facing surface. The distal facing surface including an area configured to emit RF energy (352).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 20, 32 and 48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lesh further in view of Whayne et al. '4454. Lesh teaches all of the limitations of the claims except the RF emitting area comprising a microporous section. Whayne et al. disclose a similar device and teach that it is old and well known in the art to provide a microporous section which would provide a stationary platform for visualizing tissue and making possible the creation of an accurate image of the targeted tissue. Therefore, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to provide a microporous section in the Lesh device as taught by Whayne et al. to provide a stationary platform for visualizing tissue.

Claims 26, 38 and 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lesh further in view of Whayne et al. '411. Lesh teaches all of the limitations of the claims except a temperature-sensing element. Whayne et al. disclose a similar device and teach that it is old and well known in the art to provide a temperature-sensing element to control the power level and achieve the desired lesion patterns. Therefore, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to provide a temperature sensing element on the Lesh device as taught by Whayne et al. to provide a means of controlling the power level.
